

MAX⁸ DRINKERS

DRINKERS FOR COMMERCIAL LAYERS

Better layer performance.

Try Ziggity Max8 drinkers in your commercial layer system, and see the difference for yourself!

Dry slats, pits, belts and floors, plus improved performance of your commercial layers are as simple as installing Ziggity Max8 drinkers on your existing commercial layer watering system. The Max8 drinker was designed exclusively for layers* with most parts exclusive to this drinker model. It delivers the right amount of water layers need without oversupply.

Designed from the inside out specifically for the way layers drink, Max8 drinkers feature an exclusive heavier shut-off ball. Bird movement may cause watering systems to vibrate, so we made the Max8 ball heavier to help prevent the ball rattling off the seat, reducing the chance of seepage. This and other exclusive Max8 features result in a drier environment that minimizes ammonia release, resulting in healthier birds and improved egg production.

You can enjoy the benefits of Max8 drinkers without installing an entire new watering system. Simply retrofit your Ziggity or non-Ziggity drinker lines with our Twin Lock or Aktive Max8 drinkers.

We believe so strongly in the Max8 that we'll send you free sample drinkers to test in your watering system against your present drinkers.

Contact a Ziggity distributor for your free Ziggity Max8 drinker samples.

*Please note, Max8 drinkers are for use only with commercial layers 16 weeks and older.

TL Max8 drinkers attach exclusively to Ziggity saddles for the most secure installation available.

Aktive Max8 drinkers have J-Locks that fit many other brands of watering systems, making upgrading easy.
